DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 8-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ido et al, JP 2000-020445 (cited by Applicant) in view of Luo, US. Pat. No. 6,169,700.
3. Claims 8-12, Ido teaches a storage system comprising:

a storage control apparatus [MCU 301 of Fig. 1] including a plurality of ports connected with the plurality of computers and a controller for controlling the I/O from the computers [Fig. 1];

a storage apparatus including a plurality of storage devices [601-603 of Fig. 1]; wherein the controller is provided with a priority information table holding one of a priority or non-priority value for each of the ports [see abstract].

Ido fails to teach delaying by a predefined time the start of I/O processing received by ports having non-priority values.

Luo teaches a dual port access to elements of a common device comprising a wait state generator that delays a second access on the second port until after a first access on the first port is completed [see abstract, col. 2, lines 41-59].

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the system of Ido to include teach delaying by a predefined time the start of I/O processing received by ports having non-priority values, because it allows simultaneous access from multiple ports to the shared storage system [see Luo, col. 2, lines 52-59].

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 1-7 are allowed.
